

F-1 Student Eligibility for Community and Industry Graduate Research Assistantships (CIGAs)

February 23, 2018

Purpose

The purpose of this document is to clarify the parameters on the use of the CIGA program at UA as it relates to the eligibility of international students.

Background

In light of legal concerns relative to the regulatory definition of “on-campus” employment for F-1 students, the Office of General Counsel and the International Center had previously determined that students in F-1 status must apply for Curricular Practical Training (CPT) authorization to work off-campus at a sponsoring company, even though the student was receiving payment from UA.

However, the CPT mechanism has drawbacks, namely:

- x cumbersome implementation (i.e., several rounds of back-and-forth paperwork between the department, employer, Office of Research Administration, the Office of General Counsel and the International Center);
- x regulatory limitation that F-1 students enroll fulltime for one academic year before becoming eligible for CPT, limiting the CIGA opportunity during this critical first year;
- x requirement that F-1 students enroll in a credit-bearing course associated with the CPT each semester; and
- x the possibility that government guidance relating to CPT may change at any point under the current administration.

Current Policy

In light of the CIGA and Graduate School Tuition Policy (January 29, 2018) and after consulting with the deans of several Colleges who have been engaged in the CIGA program, it is now determined that CIGA opportunities may count as on-campus employment (and thus do not require special employment authorization through the International Center) if they meet the following criteria:²

- x There is a signed CIGA contract between UA and the sponsor, and
- x The student's faculty advisor signs an attestation that certifies

² These criteria are based on 8 C.F.R. 214.2(f)(9)(i).

³ For purposes of this policy, “integral” means “essential to completeness” or “a component of the whole.”

⁵ An example of (b) is a contract-based research grant to the faculty advisor which is expected to rarely occur in the CIGA context).
